

Young Life in 30 Seconds

One of the first questions that you will be asked when you tell people you're involved with Young Life is this: "So, what's Young Life all about?"

At this point, you have about 30 seconds to explain and engage this person with the vision and heart of Young Life. It is also the point at which we struggle to find the right words to sum up the highs, depths and mess that walking with young people entails.

The following information will help you explain the essence of Young Life when that question arises.

Our Mission

Connecting with young people in their world.
